
* After treating males at different temperatures, the rest of the experiment was conducted in a common garden environment at 24°C
 We also incubated those old vials until emergence of F1 for counting
 We followed the females until they died